ASVCP National Office or colleges of veterinary medicine that grant a DVM or equivalent degree will be held at the Washington State Convention Center in Seattle, Washington, to showcase our society and spark interest in clinical pathology. Next year’s session during the final two hours of the session, Dr. Rose Raskin presented several topics about the effects of paraneoplastic syndromes on complete blood counts and other clinical laboratory tests.

Oncology at Oregon State University, our first invited speaker, will update us on the role of exosomes in cancer progression, immune regulation, and drug delivery. The Teaching Forum will be at a new time this year, on Monday, November 6, from 6 to 8 p.m. during the ACVP/ASVCP Annual Meeting at the Fairmont Waterfront Hotel and Vancouver Convention Centre in Vancouver, BC. These individuals will take office at or after the Business Meeting in Vancouver, British Columbia, Canada, on Sunday, November 5, 2017.

The ASVCP Education Committee is pleased to announce the following awards for 2017:

- 2017 ASVCP Early Career Award Recipient: Dr. Anne Barger
- 2017 ASVCP Lifetime Achievement Award Recipient: Dr. Janet Bracha
- 2017 ACVP/ASVCP Early Career Award Recipient: Dr. Michael Mason

The ASVCP sessions are shaping up to be a great way to acquire new knowledge and network with colleagues. If you would like to become a member and help with the planning for next year, we hope you can join us for education, collaboration, and fun in Vancouver.

Other important ASVCP business includes the Web Redesign Subcommittee, which is working on the new website that is coming together! The Executive Board, with the help of our Editor-in-Chief, Dr. Dennis DeNicola, is working on the Preliminary Program for Pre- and Post-Meeting Workshop Information. After the ASVCP sessions are completed, the ACVP will be held at the San Diego Convention Center in San Diego, CA, from January 31 to February 3, 2018, at the 2018 ACVP/ASVCP Annual Meeting.
